German Patent Document DT 25 53 802 relates to a strip embossing press for pressing foils, papers, artificial and genuine veneers, films and other surface materials on to carrier plates and panels, e.g., chipboards. The strips are guided at the entry and the exit of the press by way of direction-changing rollers. The strips are supported at strip portions which extend into the pressing region, and are in mutually parallel, preferably horizontal, relationship. Remote from the material to be pressed, a plurality of support rollers are distributed over the length of said strip portion, characterized in that the axes of the support rollers belonging to the upper strip extend between two axes of the support rollers belonging to the lower strip.
